

Real Madrid CF v Manchester United FC

8 August 2017 20:45

Welcome to Skopje for the 2017 UEFA Super Cup.

A new European club competition season is upon us, and this annual encounter between the winners of last season's UEFA Champions League and UEFA Europa League provides the perfect opportunity to celebrate the best that European club football has to offer.

In addition, UEFA's decision to take the Super Cup match around Europe gives more national associations the chance to stage this showpiece event – enabling fans in the host country to savour the festive atmosphere created by an occasion of this stature.

The supporters of Real Madrid CF and Manchester United FC will also enjoy their visit to Skopje, proud organiser of its first-ever major European club competition final. These two high-calibre teams include some of the best players on the international stage, and we can certainly expect an exciting, entertaining game.

I hope that you come away from the match with a host of fond memories.

Aleksander Čeferin, UEFA President

As the president of the Football Federation of Macedonia, I am honoured to welcome you to Skopje, the venue for this year's UEFA Super Cup.

Having been entrusted with organising this major football event, we have fulfilled our ambition to promote our city and our country. For our football fans, this is a rare opportunity to attend a match between two of Europe's best teams at our very own national arena.

We are pleased that we have earned the respect of UEFA, in whose decisions we sense a love of football and respect for all associations, regardless of their size and financial influence.

Football is one of society's most significant ambassadors and promoters of fair play, social inclusion, health and education.

That is why this match is a true inspiration for all of us, and for the entire Macedonian public. I wish both clubs the best of luck and the spectators a fantastic match. I invite you to celebrate wholeheartedly and respect each other.

Enjoy the match and your stay in Skopje!

Ilho Gjorgjoski, President of the Football Federation of Macedonia

SKOPJE MUNICIPALITY

As the mayor of Skopje, I feel immense satisfaction and a great sense of responsibility that the capital of our beautiful country has the honour of hosting such a prestigious European football match.

I wish you a warm and sporting welcome to this city of solidarity, a city that takes pride in its footballing history, primarily through the successes of our most decorated club, FK Vardar, which plays at the national stadium.

I and my fellow citizens of Skopje look forward to an excellent match, played fairly, in which the masters of "the most important unimportant thing in the world" demonstrate their skills and gallantry in an attempt to lift the UEFA Super Cup trophy.

I am positive that you will leave the city with wonderful, lasting memories of your visit to our beautiful Skopje.

Koce Trajanovski, Mayor of Skopje

WELCOME TO SKOPJE

Skopje is the capital and largest city of FYR Macedonia, and the country's administrative, political, economic, cultural, educational and scientific centre. It straddles the Vardar river, at the heart of the Balkan Peninsula.

The city of Skopje is more than 2,000 years old. It has been shaken by wars, earthquakes and fires, and has had many rulers, but it has survived – and indeed thrived – nonetheless. Skopje, or Scupi as it was known historically, has always been a big city with an authentic culture and the latest travel research invites the world to visit the hometown of Mother Teresa, who was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1979 and was declared a saint in 2016.

Great food and Macedonian wine, a rich history and the various cultures that have left their mark over time are the main reasons for tourists to spend at least a weekend in Skopje. From the Old Bazaar, past the Skopje Fortress (also known as Kale), crossing the Stone Bridge and Macedonia Square and on to the Memorial House of Mother Teresa, your gaze will be drawn to the Millennium Cross on top of the Vodno mountain that towers directly over the city. Don't miss a visit to the many nearby caves, discover our native butterflies and stroll along the beautiful quay of the Treska river or take out a kayak on this tributary of the Vardar that cuts through the natural monument of Matka Canyon.
